

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my deep concern regarding the treatment of Cuthbert Taylor, a talented boxer who was unjustly denied a British Title due to the colour of his skin. It is unacceptable that his family never received an apology for this discriminatory act, which not only tarnished Taylor's reputation but also highlights a systemic issue within the boxing community.

The denial of a British Title to Cuthbert Taylor solely based on his race is a clear violation of his rights as a boxer and as a human being. This act of discrimination not only undermines the integrity of the sport but also perpetuates harmful stereotypes and inequalities. The failure to acknowledge and apologise for this injustice only serves to further perpetuate the pain and suffering experienced by Taylor and his family.

It is imperative that the British Boxing Board takes immediate action to address this matter ethically and transparently. An apology to Cuthbert Taylor's family is not just a matter of courtesy but a moral obligation to right the wrongs of the past and to ensure that such injustices are not repeated in the future.

I urge the British Boxing Board to reflect on its actions and to take proactive steps towards promoting equality, diversity, and inclusivity within the sport. By acknowledging and apologising for the mistreatment of Cuthbert Taylor, the Board can demonstrate its commitment to upholding ethical standards and fostering a more inclusive and respectful boxing community.

Yours sincerely,
